Drop-Off Doesn't Have to be Difficult

Drop-off time is often the most emotional time for parents and children. Some children ease into the classroom setting with great excitement while others express apprehension and tears. The emotion usually lasts as long as they can see the parent, and stops once the parent leaves the classroom. Whether they are truly upset or just not wanting you to leave, they need to be reassured in a loving and compassionate manner.

1. Be consistent from day one! Spend the same amount of time at drop off and say the same things.
2. Allow your child to participate in putting their things away. Helps them to feel settled.
3. Arrive and pick-up at the same time each day, at least initially.

It is our job to make drop-off time as easy for you as possible. Signal a teacher to help if you need to drop-off quickly. We love your children too! Also, know that you can call at any time.
